Accident While Going

ONE DEAD MANY INJURED

Ground Covered With Blood and Woman Dropped Dead When Told of Tragedy.

Boston, Mass., June 27.—Into what a merry, laughing, care-free throng of club women from practically every state in the Union, death and disaster stalked Friday afternoon!

In the midst of sunshine and good cheer an accident came which seriously injured eight women and painfully injured and frightened many more.

That but one death resulted, that of Mrs. J. C. Shute, of Corn Rapids, Iowa, is the remarkable feature of the affair.

Strange to say Mrs. Shute was not one of the immediate party, and did not even witness the accident. An excited woman rushed up to a group of which she was one and told of the tragedy. The Iowa women with a sudden cry, placed her hands over her heart, and fell fainting. At 4:30 o'clock she passed away.

It was the breaking down of a wheel of a high four seated drag occupied by delegates from Massachusetts, Iowa, Oregon and Nebraska that caused the tragedy, and but for the presence of mind of the driver, Jeremiah Sullivan, a greater number would have been injured.

Driver Sullivan's drag was starting down the hill leading to Easton's beach going to the pavillion at the beach for the clam bake after a long drive about Newport, when suddenly the left forward wheel wobbled.

The high seat, with its 14 occupants, began to settle over to the side and in another instant the driver's seat, higher than the rest, was torn from the drag and thrown to the ground. The vehicle then collided with a large ahead full of Iowa people, many of whom sought to jump from the carriage, while others held them.

On the end of the front seat sat Mrs. Eva J. Wynne, of Hawthorne street, Malden, a middle aged and rather stout woman, who was thrown out and struck the ground on her face and head. She was picked up unconscious, badly cut and bleeding profusely. It was later found that her skull was fractured and concussion of the brain had ensued. She is not expected to recover.

Some of the women were thrown over the opposite side of the vehicle and struck the grassy embankment on the left of the hill, where the mid-day clam bake and revel was then going on.

The scene was harrowing. The ground was covered with blood, and those who were in the carriages in front and directly behind the drag were greatly affected, one woman fainting.

Mrs. Wm. Orr, of Piqua, O.; Mrs. Sarah Decker, of Denver; Mrs. May Alden Ward, of Boston, and other members of the board of directors, were utterly unconscious of the terrible event and were on the return trip. Anticipating a hard day when the session will be strenuous, they had partaken of the clam bake in advance of the others and had gone on ahead.

The news of the accident spread like wildfire among the women while they were in the height of their enjoyment, and cast the deepest sort of gloom over them. Scattered as they were, however, there were many of the 2,200 who received their first news of the tragedy when they embarked for the return trip.

Practically the entire Ohio delegation went to Newport. None of the Ohio women, however, were in the accident.

The dead:
Shute, Mrs. J. C., of Corn Rapids Iowa.

The seriously injured:

Benjamin, Mrs. Mabel, of Malden, Mass.; arm broken and badly bruised.
Davenport, Mrs. Charles, Watertown, Mass.; collar bone and ribs broken.

Hayes, Mrs. J. D., of Portland, Ore.; severe cuts and bruises.

Hayes, Charlotte A., Red Oak, Ia.; bad body bruises.

Hayes, Violet L., Portland, Ore.;

multiple contusions.
Peabody, Mrs. Charles, Malden, Mass.; arm broken in two places.
Sundeau, Mrs. Lincoln, Neb.; ankle broken.

Wynne, Mrs. Eva J., of Malden, Mass.; skull fractured.

Delegate from Des Moines, whose name could not be ascertained; many bad bruises.

The women under treatment at the hospital, save Mrs. Wynne, who remains unconscious and in a critical state, and Mrs. Davenport and Mr. Sundeau, have been discharged and returned to Boston.

Last night fully 4,000 people attended the forestry session of the convention and listened to addresses on the work being done for preserving forests.

Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City, Ind., spoke on the question of household economics; Mrs. Kyr., on the "Educational Awakening in Kentucky." Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, will speak on "National Legislation on Child Labor," this evening.

TROOPS IN HOT PURSUIT

City of Mexico, June 27.—Government troops are in hot pursuit of two bands of revolutionists, one of which made a successful attack on the town of Viesca, looting the bank, stamp and express office, and second of which was repulsed after a hard fight at Las Vacas, 160 miles north of Viesca. In the attack on Las Vacas, D. Basile Ramirez, an American citizen, was wounded.

ROUGH DRAFT OF DOCUMENT CONSIDERED

Platform for Denver
Convention

REVISION OF THE TARIFF

Conservative Basis Contemplated,
Completion of Panama Canal Favored.

Lincoln, Neb., June 27.—William J. Bryan is busily engaged in considering the following planks for the Democratic platform.

Tariff Revision—This plank will advocate uncompromisingly a revision downward, based on a revenue and protection principle combined, but not so emphasizing the protective principle as to foster a monopoly or a special privilege. This revision shall be made immediately.

Anti-Trust Law—There will be a plank insisting on the application of the criminal statutes to trusts violating the anti-trust laws, together with such additional legislation as will destroy all private monopoly. There will be a demand for the non-duplication of Directors in corporations, for a federal license which shall not interfere with state rights, but which, at the same time shall protect the public from watered stock and prohibit a monopoly of any product consumed in the United States; and third, a law compelling such licensed corporations to sell to all consumers in the United States on the same basis, allowing only for the difference in the cost of the transportation.

The Interstate Commerce—A re-assertion of the rights of congress to control interstate commerce under the commerce clauses of the constitution, of the powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission to protect the public against all forms of extortion and discrimination. The physical valuation of all railroads will be demanded as a basis for rate making and for the issuing of further securities upon them, said valuation to be based upon the cost of the reproduction of the road at present prices. Also, enforcement of the commodity clause in the Hepburn law prohibiting railroads from engaging in any other business than transportation will be demanded and a reduction of railroad rates to that point where the net income will pay the interest charges, including dividends, and keep the securities at par. Government ownership, if mentioned at all will be subordinated so as to make it the last resource should Government regulation fail.

Campaign Funds.—A plank which will unqualifiedly bar the Democratic party on record as favoring publicity for campaign fund contributions.

State Rights.—A recognition of the rights of the states as to their police powers and a demand that foreign corporations shall submit their legal disputes to the courts of the states in which they do business, thus placing

JUDGE HARMON

Will Be One of the Orators at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Reunion at Black Hand.

Arrangements are rapidly being perfected for the annual reunion of soldiers and sailors of Licking and adjoining counties to be held at the beautiful Wickham Grove, near Black Hand, on August 1, and the indications are that the reunion this year will be the most successful of any ever held. These reunions are an annual feature with the old soldiers and are looked forward to with the keenest interest. Every year thousands of the old soldiers meet at this romantic spot, and in story and song fight over the battles of the civil war.

Many prominent speakers have been invited to attend and many have signified their intention of being present at the reunion. The secretary of the association, Mr. D. T. Francis, wrote a letter to Hon. Judson Harmon, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Ohio, extending to him a very cordial invitation on the part of the committee, to attend the reunion and deliver an address. To this communication Mr. Harmon replied as follows:

"Charlevoix, Mich., June 21, '08.
"Dear Mr. Francis: I am very sorry my reply to your kind letter of the 11th instant has been delayed by absence from home. I now write to thank you for your kind invitation to the reunion at Black Hand on August 13th and to say that I take great pleasure in accepting it. I suppose the address you mention will be an informal one, as there will be a number of others.
"Very sincerely yours,
"JUDSON HARMON."

Petersburg, Ind., June 27.—Union, Clay township, 10 miles west of here, had many strange occurrences here yesterday. Marshal Hornbrook, telephone lineman, descended a telephone pole leaving a hatchet sticking at the top of the pole. Just as he reached the ground the hatchet fell, striking Hornbrook on the head, inflicting a dangerous wound.

At the conclusion of the morning services at a camp meeting a horse driven by Miss Anna Jenkins ran away, throwing her and her father out, killing the animal, demolishing the buggy and seriously injuring both occupants.

Sam Linzy's horse ran away and he and Miss Letty Huey were badly injured. Lawrence McAlee's horse ran away, but McAlee escaped possible injury by jumping.

The day's sensations ended by the arrest of Tom Myrick, aged 14 years, charged with enticing Grace Hill, 16 years old, into his home and, after looking the door, attempting an assault.

BRYAN TO CONFER WITH LABOR MEN

Washington, June 27.—It is believed here that William J. Bryan desires the Democratic National Convention to take a firm stand regarding the legislative demands of labor. Bryan has invited Sam De Nedrey and J. J. Purcell to visit him at Lincoln, en route to Denver, and it is said the anti-injunction plank will be discussed.

Messrs. De Nedrey and Purcell are delegates from the District of Columbia and the former is secretary of the Central Labor Union. Purcell is chairman of the adjustment committee of the Central Labor Union.

LABOR'S DEMAND

WILL BE GRANTED BY DEMOCRACY AT THE NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Bryan in Control and Anti-Injunction Plank Will Be Drafted Similar Nebraska Platform.

Denver, June 27.—The Democracy will grant most of labor's demands. Leaders already on the ground for the national convention say that Bryan is in absolute control of the party and his wishes will be paramount. The result of this will be an anti-injunction plank, framed along the lines of that of the Nebraska state platform, which was drafted by Bryan.

With nearly all members of the sub-committee on arrangements already here for Saturday's meeting most of the preliminaries are being smoothed out.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ORGANIZES

The new Democratic executive committee, recently appointed, met Saturday afternoon in the city hall and effected an organization. The meeting was largely attended and was very enthusiastic.

The Showing of Earnings by the Newark Telephone Company for Final Five Months of 1908.

The Ohio State Journal several days ago copied an item from the Telephone Securities weekly regarding the earnings of the Newark Telephone company for the past year and in comparing it with the previous year got the figures mixed.

Computing its earnings for the year on the basis of the first five months' operations, the company will close 1908, after meeting all expenses and fixed charges, with approximately $21,000 net surplus applicable to dividends on the $60,000 common stock outstanding, or over 34 per cent.

The total earnings of the company for the first five months of 1907 were $21,620, and for the first five months of 1908 were $24,162. This shows a gain over 1907 of $2,542.

HARRY K. THAW

Obtains Writ of Habeas Corpus and Will Not Have to Go Back to Matteawan Asylum.

Poughkeepsie, June 27.—Russell Peabody, counsel for Harry K. Thaw, today obtained a new writ of habeas corpus for Thaw, returnable at White Plains, Monday. The new writ demands the examination of the case by a jury. Justice Moorschauser this morning signed the necessary papers remanding Thaw back to Matteawan, but the new writ will act as a stay and Thaw will remain in jail here. A new point raised is that Thaw, after his acquittal, could not lawfully be restrained of his liberty as an insane person without an inquisition in lunacy.

ADDRESS TO ILLINOIS ATTORNEYS

In Which Congressman
Littlefield Hands Out
a Knock.

REMARKS ARE SURPRISE

Closes Talk on Sherman Anti-Trust Law With Velled Attack on President.

Chicago, June 27.—Congressman Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, addressing lawyers and jurists at the closing session here of the annual meeting of the Illinois Bar Association, made a caustic criticism of the application of the Sherman anti-trust law.

He declared that the law itself is indefinite, branded proposed amendments to the act as an attempt to infuse life into something lifeless, and closed his peroration with a veiled attack upon President Roosevelt.

After questioning the efficiency of the anti-trust law on the ground that it leaves too much to the discretion of jurors as to the "reasonableness or unreasonableness" of actions which might restrain trade he endeavored to show that no similar laws with indefinite provisos ever had or ever could be enforced.

He then accused the Commissioner of Corporations of misstatements as to the success of such enforcements and added:

"Senator Lodge in the National Republican convention said that President Roosevelt had enforced the laws as he found them on the statute books. The Republican platform congratulates itself on the enforcement of all the laws. In the light of cases I have cited to you it would seem that proclamation and not performance constitutes enforcement of the law."

"The distinguished publicists, think business men are very much disturbed for fear they are facing a prison cell for doing business under modern methods. I don't think that this apprehension has any reasonable foundation."

The speaker pointed out that but seven convictions had been secured under the Sherman law since September 14, 1901, and continued:

"It may be that the predatory rich are lurking in every corner, and that malefactors of great wealth, abound. If this be true, and they have been going about seeking whom they may devour, the extent to which the wicked have thus far gone unwhipped of justice borders upon the grotesque."

"The whole subject to which conspiracies in restraint of trade relate is an equation. On the one hand you have labor, and on the other capital. You hear more of capital in association with restraint of trade than you do of labor, and then, again, little is said about a conspiracy tending to create a monopoly. After all, it is not a bad thing that capital exists that it may provide for the existence of labor."

Referring to the proposed amendment to the anti-trust law Congressman Littlefield said:

"When it becomes necessary to give force to a law by that process the act does not commend itself to my good judgement. The amendment is said to have the object of requiring all corporations or individuals who seek to get the benefit of its provisions to register themselves with the Bureau of Corporations that they may have conferred upon them benefits and privileges that do not now exist under the law."

"I may say here that I am at all times opposed to placing in the hands of any administrative bureau the power to supervise and regulate the business of $7,000,000 people."

"But the most serious legal objection is the fact that it would invalidate the penal character of the act. If this was invalidated there would not be enough of the act left for any extended discussion."

WHERE BODY OF GROVER CLEVELAND LIES BURIED.

WHERE PRESIDENT CLEVELAND'S BODY WILL LIE BESIDE THAT OF HIS DAUGHTER, RUTH

Princeton, N. J., June 27.—Grover Cleveland's body lies buried in the Cleveland plot at Princeton cemetery.

At 6 o'clock just as the sun was sinking Friday evening, a distinguished company silently watched as the body was lowered into the grave. Then the simple burial service of the Presbyterian church was read and before the last of the carriages in two cortege had driven up to the path leading to the burial place the benediction had been pronounced and members of the family, President Roosevelt, and others who had gathered about the grave, were leaving the cemetery.

Many of the personal friends of the dead statesman lingered about the spot which was to mark his last resting place, and each in turn was permitted to cast a shovelful of earth into the grave.

but in reality, if successfully carried out, the fashion is most effective, and, furthermore, makes a waist seem much smarter and more elaborate than if merely finished in the regulation style of such long standing as has been the fashion for several years.

Are the long, clinging skirts graceful and is the fashion to become permanent and absolute, are questions that are seriously agitating the minds of all women who are fond of clothes and want to look their best. In its perfection the fashion is most charming and becoming to a graceful figure. In its failures there has rarely been a fashion more hideous or unbecoming. It is not economical, for in order to secure the desired long lines and effects the material must be most carefully and at the same time most recklessly cut, and the cheaper fabrics are not, as a rule, so satisfactory to work with as the more expensive. In other words, to carry out to the fullest this fashion it will, for the present at all events, be well to realize that it is quite expensive, in spite of its appearance of severe simplicity. Once the knowledge of lines has been attained, the style can be copied for a third the price, especially if care be taken in buying the material and the trimmings. Then, with a perfect fitting lining, and, incidentally, a perfect figure, the very latest fashion can be safely attained.

BRAID AND SILK TRIMMINGS. Trimmings are to be carefully considered in these latest fashions. Braiding and embroidery are all-important items to be considered. The narrow soutache braid, being still the most popular, is used in many different designs in straight lines and in intricate patterns. The same shade of color or one shade lighter or darker gives the smartest effect—a contrast in color between braid and material not being popular. A tan pongee of the heavy quality is extremely smart braided elaborately with the same color soutache. A queer shade of raspberry pink has bands of plain raffia or linen with an elaborate braiding in soutache of the same shade, but the trimming is seen only on the sleeves and the front of the coat. The skirt is quite plain. On the tan or natural color the braiding is both on the back and front of the coat, on the sleeves and around the bottom of the skirt. Braiding or bands of chiffon are one of the popular trimmings that are effective and is used on the long coats and cloaks as well as on the princess and Empire styles.

The waistcoats, collars and fronts of the new coats also provide an excellent opportunity for the elaborate braiding, and often the waistcoat is the most expensive part of the entire costume.

The entourage coats that were extremely fashionable are made much more elaborate for which can be and generally is of the most elaborate style. A becoming and rather unusual fashion is the waistcoat of a lighter or darker shade than the coat. This is smarter than when the lighter tone of coloring is given by the braid of a shade lighter. Contrasting colors also are used, but these are not thought so smart as the one tone color effect.

Light colors always seem to be more in accord with this season of the year, and dark colors are rather put in the background. At the same time for the benefit of those women who know they look their best in dark colors or black let it be known that the dark colors and black are very smart this year, and there is no reason whatever that any woman should feel called upon to array herself in light and unbecoming colors in order to be smartly gowned. It is far more unfashionable to be unbecomingly gowned in a light or striking color simply because that color is said to be the fashionable one of the season.

One of the interesting details in the gowns this spring is the combining of two or three different materials. With a plain crepe de Chine or voile will be combined pleated chiffon or mousseline de soie, while bands of silk or velvet form the sole, and, finally, the rest of the waist in one waist will be seen two or even three kinds of lace and chiffon, as well as the material that matches the rest of the gown. A small yoke and collar of fine laces to begin or end with; below this yoke there will be another of different face of heavier mesh or even of gold or silver embroidered lace; then over this a pleating of chiffon extremely sheer in quality, and, finally, the rest of the waist of whatever may be the gown's material. In the description this sounds too involved and complicated to be really smart,

Fashion Details Every Woman Should Know

The Kimono Coat.

KIMONO coats, as shown in figure 1, are among the most fascinating evening wraps, especially for late spring and summer wear, and they are very fashionable for persons to whom they are becoming. Not every one, however, will find her figure improved by a kimono coat. They are more becoming to small women than to large and to slender women than to stout ones. The more nearly the original lines of the kimono are adhered to the more attractive is the coat, and for it is frequently necessary to make some alteration in the foot. The waist is most becomingly fitted below a flat waistcoat or plastron of the braiding, above which is a lace and the body of the waist is individual. The front of the garment is of the same material and color as the usually satisfactory enough, although skirt, but the sleeves are of chiffon in some cases it produces a narrow effect two colors, to match the braiding. The lining is of a lighter shade, or if black make the figure look round and shouldered. Chiffon is used the lining is of an entirely less it is carefully adjusted to the individual wearer. The coats frequently are well in black, with the sleeves lined with mauve or pink and with a touch of pink satin or velvet on the front of the waist. There is a dreary monotony in repeating that long lines are fashionable and, however, the smartest and most graceful costumes display it in marked, not interfere with them. It is puzzling to the amateur dressmaker, but the knowledge of the art can be obtained if a little time be given to the study of the lines of the figure to begin with, and then to the lines of the material that is to be used, and, like knowledge on any subject, is well worth the time and thought necessary to acquire it.

enough to wear them so for kimonos, when they are to be worn as coats they are usually lined with a thin silk—India or China—or with crepe. These coats are, of course, superbly embroidered. They are not inexpensive when bought at the fashionable shops.

The Draped Sash.

ONE of the most striking fashions of the season is that of the broad sash which is now seen on so many French frocks and which promises to be an even more prevalent feature of summer costume accessories. This sash is draped and might be called positively spectacular in effect. It may be a part of one special costume or it is possible that the same sash can be used with more than one costume—for instance, for comparatively simple summer frocks, and evening frocks. The same costume also may be used to wear with and without the sash.

As shown in figure 2, the arrangement of

this wide draped sash is rather a complicated one. One end is fastened to the middle of the back. The sash is then carried around the figure, bringing it to the middle of the front. It is then taken up across the bust and under the arm and then over the other shoulder, where it is fastened so that the second end hangs down in front. The effect on a slender figure is very charming and becoming and the style will be much used for summer dancing frocks. The sashes are made of soft satin, liberty silk, liberty silk, chiffon and figured silk. The material must, of course, be soft and must crush into graceful folds for the sash to be successful.

These sashes will be used on thin gowns of white net, white balise and chiffon, and will give all the needed color to render a white frock attractive. If it would not otherwise be. With several of these sashes a single white dancing frock will serve the purposes of three or four. On the other hand, a black or white sash may do duty for several frocks for the most part. For an all white frock, for a black and white and for one of those fashionable betweens with a large black line or figure. On figured fabrics, too, the black pretty sash will be used.

The Simple Parasol.

IN the hands of a clever woman a parasol becomes something more than a mere sunshade, a protection to the eyes and the complexion. Handled skillfully it is a telling accessory of the costume, and when chosen carefully, giving due thought to its color effect with the gown, the hair and the complexion, the parasol has all the power of making or marring the tout ensemble.

Rose colored parasols impart a delicious tint to a skin which needs a little brilliancy to perfect it, while a pale pink sunshade will soften and tone down cheeks that are too red. For two deeper than an art school color. The parasol shown in figure 3 is a rose pink linen, heavy, but with a mesh which does not defy the strong rays of the sun. To make it daintier and still more becoming there is a thin silk lining of the same shade of pink. On the edge of the parasol a fringe of pink silk supplies a fashionable finish, while a space above the edge is a band of pink silk embroidery the width of the fringe trimming.

The parasol is an adjunct of a plain yet

The Striped Shirt Waist.

TOO many shirt waists cannot spoil one's wardrobe, though they may spoil one for wearing other kinds of costumes. The ease with which they are put on, their trim look and the becoming lines of the new models endear them to the hearts of all women. In linen and especially in silk the severe shirt waist has a host of admirers, who are gradually but surely being drawn away from the softer lingerie fashions for morning wear.

Striped effects are the favorites for tailor waists. These are shown in such a variety of colors and widths of stripes in washable silks that every taste and every type of woman can find a pattern to suit and become her. The design illustrated by figure No. 4 displays an old yoke arrangement, wherein the stripes are run at right angles to those in the rest of the waist. This yoke is quite shallow. It follows the shoulder seams and extends over the top of the sleeves in a blunt point. The fronts of the waists are gathered slightly to the edge of the yoke. Instead of fastening down the middle of the front, the closing is made a little to the left of the center and is concealed beneath a double frill of pleated silk cut on the cross and a hemstitched one showing about half an inch beyond the edge of the silk frill.

The deep cuffs are shaped somewhat to the arms, and a double frill of silk and hemstitched linen outlines the upper edge, then continues down the outside, closing to the hand.

Silk collars to match are not generally becoming, so a lace neck finish is substituted for the silk one. It is made on a medium weight fine foundation having a deep turnover of Irish crochet lace, and there is a small bow tie of the lace worn with a jeweled button. E

A CULINARY NOVELTY.

Surprises to Tempt Palates That Sigh For "Something New."

Olive may be a cultivated taste, but to the trained palate they offer endless novelties when used in clever combinations. The modern cook holds the olive in gentle regard and with its aid prepares many a surprise to tempt palates that sigh for "something new."

On sandwiches, which are tiny ovals of thin bread spread with butter, then with equal parts of grated celery and chopped walnut meats put together in pairs, with a stoned olive pressed into the top, are popular at teas.

Russian sandwiches are made by chopping olives fine and just moistening them with mayonnaise. Cut thin slices of bread in narrow strips. Spread the olive upon half the pieces, spreading the others with mayonnaise. Press together in pairs.

Stuffed olives have the stones removed and replaced by any salpicon or forcemeat preferred. A variety is produced by stuffing them with some savory butter, such as lemon butter, apple butter, etc. They are separated from the stone spirally, as one peels an apple. The stoned olive is then folded about the filling, which should be about the size of the stone, until it resumes its original shape.

A Bad Leaning That Way.

At Emerson's dinner table one day there was mention of a woman well known as a lion hunter, and in speaking of her Mrs. Emerson used the word "snob." Mr. Emerson objected; the word was too harsh; he didn't like that ugly class of words beginning with "sn." His wife inquired how he would characterize the lady. "I should say," very slowly—"she is a person having great sympathy with success."

"Fighting Bob's" Wife.

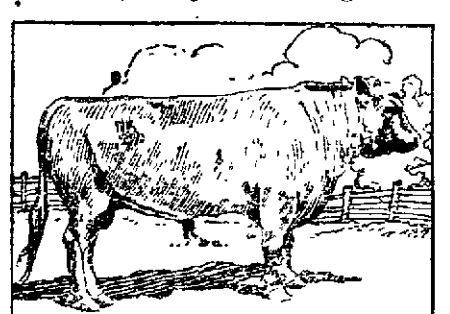

Mrs. Robley D. Evans, wife of the admiral, is a soft voiced woman of the south with snow white hair waved back from a face untroubled as a child's. A more dove-like mate for the grizzled naval hero could hardly be imagined. The stirring events of his eventful career have left no impression on her countenance or her soul. Her sunny temperament is one of her rarest charms.

BABY BEEF.

Profit In It if Quickly Matured and Properly Finished.

To raise baby beef profitably it is absolutely necessary to have calves of the beef type. They must possess the ability to put on flesh in the right spots—that is, they should be well developed where the most expensive cuts are to be found. Then, too, they must have the power to mature early. The majority of animals cannot be got into that condition at the desired age. Early maturity must be a characteristic of the animals bred from, and particularly should the sire selected possess that special quality.

The growing time in an animal's life is the time at which to feed it, as it has been proved time and again that a hundredweight can be added then at less than half the cost of the same gain on the same animal at maturity, writes J. Hugh McKenney in Farm and Fireside. For the first two weeks each calf should have a quart of whole milk three times a day, care being taken to feed it at blood temperature. During the next three weeks half a quart of skim milk should be added to the whole milk at each meal. When the calf is five weeks old it should be so developed that feeding twice a day will be sufficient, also dispensing with the whole milk and giving about three quarts of skim milk twice a day.

To supplement the loss of butter fat in milk a small amount of flaxseed meal is used. It may be prepared in the proportion of a cupful of meal to one and one-half quarts of water put into a common stove kettle and kept at a temperature just below boiling for three or four hours, which reduces the meal to a kind of jelly. This is mixed with the skim milk at the rate of about a tablespoonful to a pound of milk and may be gradually increased up to a cupful when the calf is three months old. By this time the stomach will be strong enough to assimilate and digest other food, and he should be taught to eat a little hay, oats, clover or any other dairy that he can be persuaded to consume.

The second summer is perhaps the most critical period in the life of an animal intended for early beef. While experience has shown that there is very little difference in feeding inside or outside, so far as gain in live weight is concerned, the latter method will prove the less expensive. When fed inside it is absolutely necessary that the ration consist of a certain proportion of green feed. To a certain extent ensilage will answer this purpose, but does not seem to have the same flesh producing effect as the green grass. Of all the grass mixtures with which the writer is familiar, oats and vetches with a little clover or alfalfa hay are the most suitable. All things considered, however, it is preferable to turn them out about the first of June, being careful to keep them on good pasture, supplementing it with a small quantity of meal.

In September they should be gradually accustomed to stable conditions by taking them off the grass part of the time, especially with the occurrence of frosty nights, and given a feed of silage and clover hay in addition to the grass and meal. In October they should be put on a regular ration. Steers that have been fed properly up to eighteen or twenty months of age should be getting about one-half pound of meal per hundred pounds of weight and gradually increased, so that when they are sold they will be getting nearly a pound of meal to a hundred pounds live weight of the animal.

Dilator Milking Machine.

An Ohio inventor has secured a patent for a new dilator milking machine. When the machine has been adjusted to the cow's udder and the teat openings or ducts have been dilated by means of the dilators to form artificial openings, the milk, it is said, flows freely and automatically from the openings thus formed in a much more natural manner than by the use of the suction milking machine.

In a recent test fourteen quarts of milk, it is said, were drawn from a cow by this machine, the same being applied operated and removed in six and one-half minutes. Each machine is complete in itself, requiring no air tubes or power plant, as in the case of the pneumatic milker.

According to the description, but little or no attention is required once the adjustment is made until the cow is milked dry.

How to Renovate Old Furniture.

There are many ways of renovating old furniture, but one of the best methods is the alternate use of sandpaper and varnish. First remove every particle of dust dirt and old cracked varnish from the piece of furniture to be treated, getting right down to the bare wood. To aid in this work a cabinet scraper or glass will be necessary and a bottle of wood alcohol to soften the varnish. After the varnish is removed sandpaper the wood to a smooth surface. At least four coats of finishing varnish will be required, and after each has come thoroughly dry rub lightly with the sandpaper. After the last coat of varnish has dried for two days rub boiled linseed oil on the treated surfaces with a soft cloth.

IMPOTANT LEGAL QUESTION SETTLED

The legal point has been settled that sheriffs and treasurers of counties who have been once elected, and are now serving a third year under the extension of term resulting from the biennial election amendment, are eligible to re-election to full terms of two years at the election this fall. Such is the effect of a decision given by the Supreme court Friday morning in the case of R. Frank Wilson vs. H. C. Pontus et al., member of the board of elections of Stark county. Wilson is a sheriff acting under such conditions, and has been nominated by his party for election this fall. The board of elections refused to place his name on the ballot and he brought a mandamus suit to compel them to do so. He wins. The following is the syllabus of the court in the case written by Judge A. N. Summers:

"The object of the constitutional amendment, Article 17, and of the act of April 16, 1906, (98 O. L.) passed pursuant thereto, was the continuance in office of the incumbents during the interregnum occasioned thereby, and a sheriff whose term was extended under the act, is not ineligible under section 3 of Article 10 of the constitution to succeed himself for another term."

WONDERFUL RECORDS

MADE BY LICKING COUNTY MEN IN THE BIG HANDICAP.

Capture First and Second Moneys and Again Newark is Advised Extensively.

In winning the Great American Handicap at Columbus Thursday the city of Newark is again brought into national prominence by one of its citizens, Fred Harlow, a young man employed in the molding department of the Weble Store works. Twice has this city been signally honored by citizens winning national events in the shooting world. In addition to Mr. Harlow's great feat of Thursday, Sergeant Clarence Orr, formerly of this county, and while a member of a local military company, won first prize and established a record at the national military rifle range at Sea Girt, N. J. For his splendid work on this occasion he was presented with a medal by the President of the United States and also won a substantial cash prize. He immediately came into prominence as the best rifle shot in the country and was extensively advertised in all the periodicals of the world, as the champion rifle shot of the United States, whose home was at Newark, O. Thus did this city benefit by his splendid achievements.

Sergeant Clarence Orr, who holds the record as the champion military shot of the United States, is a Licking county product. He was born and brought up in the vicinity of Jackson-town, the birthplace of so many of the members of this well known family. He spent his earlier life much as other boys in farming communities and from the time he could handle a gun bore the reputation of being a crack shot. He served as Sergeant in Company K, of the Seventh O. V. I., in the war with Spain, and when he was mustered out in November of 1898 he enlisted in the Seventeenth regiment, U. S. A., and served his enlistment in the Philippines. After his discharge from the regular army and on his return home he enlisted in Company G, O. N. G., of the Fourth regiment of this city, in which company he served until 1906, when he was transferred to Company M, First regiment, O. N. G., at King's Mills, near Cincinnati, having secured a responsible position with the Peters Cartridge company, as foreman in one of the departments of the big cartridge works, which position he still holds. Sergeant Orr is a member of the State Rifle Team, and passed through Newark a few days ago on his way to Camp Perry, where he will try out with the team for a place on the International Rifle team, which shoots in England in August.

Newark is the home of many noted shot's and contains some of the best in the business. It is a fact well known over the entire country that a better team can readily be found in this city than any other city of its size and has frequently demonstrated this fact in the field and shooting at targets. The Newark Gun club has successfully won the state trophy several times, having wrested it from the Cincinnati Gun club several years ago at a state shoot held at Dayton.

This city is also the home of Johnny Taylor, Lon Fisher, Fred King, John Kiefer, Sam Burrell and Brance Keefe, all splendid shots with a state reputation.

The remarkable work of Mr. Harlow attracted attention all over the country not only for the record which he has established in winning the American Handicap but also from the fact that he never before shot in a tournament of that kind.

An Advocate representative called at the Harlow home at 54 Hancock street and was pleasantly greeted by both Mr. and Mrs. Harlow. They have three interesting little sons, aged seven, five and three years. Mrs. Harlow is very proud of her husband's accomplishments and was present at Columbus Wednesday when he won second place in the preliminary handicap previous to the big event, breaking 94 targets and losing first place by one target. For this work he received a prize amounting to a little over $100.

As stated in Friday's Advocate Mr. Harlow is a son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Harlow, formerly of this city, but at present residing near Millersport, on Buckeye Lake. The elder Harlow was considered a famous shot at live birds in the field and holds several records. He was considered the champion of Licking and several adjoining counties. Unfortunately he was accidentally shot in the arm while hunting one day and it has seriously interfered with his work since. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harlow are very proud of their son's work and telephoned him their congratulations soon after he had won the match.

To the Advocate representative Mr. Harlow stated that he had begun shooting traps when a lad of thirteen years of age. He said he dearly loved the sport and as he expressed it, "would rather shoot than do anything he knew of."

Fred is 28 years old today and with his better half, children and a number of relatives is celebrating a double event, the winning of the Handicap and his natal anniversary. He called at the Advocate office Saturday morning with Mrs. Harlow and exhibited the splendid trophy which was awarded him at Columbus. It is a silver loving cup, gold lined, and stands about twenty inches high, its value being $200. On it is inscribed:

- : Presented by the
- : Interstate Association to:
- : Mr. Fred Harlow,
- : Winner of the Ninth
- : Grand American Handicap:
- : At Targets
- : 1908,
- : Columbus, Ohio

Besides the silver trophy Mr. Harlow won a purse of $318 for his excellent work in the big Handicap. At present he is employed as a molder but will undoubtedly receive any number of flattering offers to travel and demonstrate the goods of firearms and supply companies. Today he is receiving the congratulations of his many friends over his good work at Columbus.

ing 187 out of 200, from the eighteen-yard base. He was only beaten by one target, the first prize going to Fred Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Ia., who broke 188.

THE LODGES

Knights of Pythias.
A large crowd attended the K. of P. memorial services in Croton Sunday afternoon. Tribute was first paid to the graves of the dead, after which the members marched to the Disciple church where they listened to a very interesting address by Mr. B. F. McDonald. His address was founded on "Friendship, the Greatest Blessing the World Can Bestow," repeating the story of Damon and Pythias, the foundation stone of Pythianism. Mr. McDonald spoke of the birth of Pythianism, 44 years ago, of the growth of the lodge from an organization of five men to 88,000 men, the membership of today. Following this a very interesting address by the Hon. Wm. A. Ashbrook of Johnstown. Some very pretty vocal selections were rendered by the male quartet of Centerville. A number of visiting Knights were present from Johnstown and Centerville.

At the Pythian Sisters lodge in Croton the following officers were elected: Mrs. Sarah Taylor, M. E. J.; Mrs. Sadie Buel, senior; Ethel Case, Mgr.; Mrs. Cyrus Williams, protector; Mrs. Wm. Hatfield, outer guard; Laura Wells, past chief; Mrs. Emmet Shaffer, T. D. The installation will be held the first Tuesday evening in July.

WILL YOUR ESTATE BE A BUNCH OF RENT RECEIPTS?

Is it not business to invest your earnings and keep them invested? Experience has proven that fortunes invested in real estate have remained intact through more generations than when invested in any other form of property.

For the head of the family the title to his home means the saving of rents and the possession of an asset constantly increasing in value. Values in real estate have been created by the growth of population. These are factors which tend to increase the demand for, and decrease the supply of real estate.

We are now building modern houses and will offer lots for sale with or without houses, in my new addition, corner of Church and Eighth streets. Streets will be improved by paving, cement walks, gas and water to property lines, no special taxes, all improvements are paid. When all improvements are made these houses and lots will soon sell and you will have lost another opportunity to better your condition.

Can you afford to let this opportunity pass?

Both the Molders and the Tigers seemed determined yesterday to see which team could make the most errors and both fought hard for the questionable honor, but the Molders finally carried off the palm when an error by Murray and another by Erv Wratton, and a passed ball by Williams lost the game in the 12th for the Newark team.

Probably never in the history of baseball in Wehrle park was such poor ball played as was played yesterday, and both teams did all they could to lower their fielding averages. Mixed up with some of the dopy work was some as sensational fielding as one could care to see, and the heavy slugging at different times only served to keep the interest up, but just as sure as a brilliant play was made, one that was very yellow was then pulled off to counteract the effect.

In the last two games the teams have had a combined total of 25 misplays, and in the three games the Molders have seen their error column bolstered up with 18 wobbles, while the visitors have drawn 11 errors for their share of the trouble. Yet with all these misplays the Molders won two out of the three games, and but for the work of Murray and Wratton in the last frame yesterday the third game of the series might have gone over to the Newark contingent.

Mansfield was leading the Molders by four runs in the third, and in the seventh they were still the four counts to the good, and the score was not tied until the ninth, but continual hammering at Lloyd evened things up and the game might have gone into higher innings but for the two misplays that gave the visitors the lead that was not overcome.

Three men counted for the Tigers in the third, when Kettler was passed by Locke. Flood then found Locke for a triple and Kettler scored. An error of Smith put Reynolds on first, and when Davy cracked a liner for three bags, both Flood and Reynolds counted. Davy died at the third corner for the next three men fled out. Mehau rounded the bags in the third frame when he was sent around the corners through absolutely no effort of his own. He was started on his way by Locke who threw him four wide ones and then when Joe tried to catch him off at first he threw the ball away and the runner took second. Kettler laid down a sacrifice that sent him to third and when Flood sacrificed to Snyder he crossed the rubber. Reynolds also gave Snyder a little chance, but Lefty pulled the hit down.

The Molders should have sent several counts across the home plate in the third, but Williams, who played groggy ball all day, managed to put the blocks to the home of the Newark squad in such fine style that but one run counted. Williams led off with a hit, and on an error of Kettler, and on another misplay by the same man he reached third. Locke also reached first through an error of Sir James. Abbott then dumped one to Flood and while he was safe at first Locke was thrown out at second base. Snyder and Smith were both walked, and Williams finally managed to get caught at the plate when there was no reason why he should.

Snyder and Abbott also rushed around from base to base and back again for a few moments, and but for the utterly demoralized condition of the Tigers one or both of the men would have been out. As it was they were allowed to do as they pleased, while all the attention centered on Williams. He was finally touched out at the rubber, though the bases were then full by Smith's passage to the first sack. Winters finally secured a hit and Abbott scored.

Just to try to bury the Newark squad a little deeper in the run business Lloyd led off in the seventh with a spanking two bagger. An error of Winters placed him on third and Joe was safe at first on the same play. Mehau grounded out and then Biery sacrificed to right and Lloyd scored. Kettler fled out to right. Things looked rather dubious for the squad managed by Ellis, when they went to bat in the same frame, but when they got through swatting Lloyd around the lot the air was a little more rosy.

Williams started off bravely enough but he could only fly out to Reynolds. Locke then singled and Abbott hit to Kettler. He was safe at first for Jimmie threw the ball to Jewell, and Locke was out at the second corner. Snyder was on the job for a two bagger and Abbott scored. Then an error by Biery placed Smith on first, and when Winters tripped, both Snyder and Smith scored. "Monday" Locke ended the trouble for Lloyd by flying out to Jewell.

Lefty Webb replaced Locke in the ninth inning and pitched nice ball. In the ninth the Newark lads counted again when Abbott connected for a single. An error of Kettler placed him on second and there he rested while Biery caught out Snyder. Smith hit a long sacrifice to left field and Abbott scored. Winters grounded out. The next two innings there was nothing doing, but in the twelfth the Tigers took the third game of the series into camp.

Through an error of Murray Jewell reached second base, and when Williams had a passed ball he reached the third point for a count. Mehau fled out to Winters and then Biery hit to Wratton. He booted the ball and Jewell counted and Biery was safe at first. He tried hard to go to second, but a peg of Williams put him out at the bag. The score:

BASEBALL NOTES.
Catcher Breymaier split the little finger on his right hand in the fourth inning yesterday when Williams knocked a foul tip, and Harmon was sent in to catch the rest of the game.
Reynolds tore his trousers in yesterday's game when he fell going after a fly to left. Zeke blushed as much as his coat of tan would let him when he came to bat the next time with the term garment flying wildly in the breeze.
Enmett Reilly, of Lima, was put out of the game Thursday for disputing a decision of Umpire Kramer, but as Kahl had no man to play in his place Manager O'Day agreed to let him continue to play.
Two years ago Lancaster turned loose a young southpaw named Rube Marquardt because he wasn't fast enough for them. He has since pitched such sensational ball that he went to Indianapolis and that team has now sold him to Detroit.
Umpire Severs has been appointed as a regular on President Quinn's staff. Kramer has again been let out by the president. Severs has been officiating in the Texas league. He was formerly a pitcher.
Just before the Lima-Marion game was started Thursday, Fred Wilson, Marion's outfielder, received a telegram telling of the serious illness of his mother in Lamar, Mo. He retired from the field and Lotshaw was substituted.
Danny Davis, who was formerly shortstop for the Molders, has been released by Manager Porter of New Castle to Manager Wright of Youngstown.
We are still tied for third place for Lima again lost yesterday. The fight in the league is a hot one just now with Marion and Lancaster battling for first place, Newark and Lima for third and Portsmouth and Mansfield are both fighting to get away from last place.

Resigns as President of Baseball Club and John J. Carroll Succeeds Him. Important Meeting Held.

ALBERT A. STASEL.
Who Has Resigned as President of the Newark Ball Club.

One of the newly elected directors was elected to fill the chair.
The newly elected directors were sworn in, and after this had been done, Mr. Stasel resigned. He has been a good president and a hard worker for the team, but business affairs will not permit him to neglect them for the club. In the person of Mr. Carroll the club has secured a man who will have the clubs interest at heart all the time and do all he can to boost the team.

After the meeting a conference with Manager Ellis was held and matters relating to the team were discussed. The directors then adjourned to meet the evening of July 1, when President Carroll will appoint directors to act on the finance, ground, players and executive committees.

The new directorate is composed of John J. Carroll, president, Harry Roessel, vice president; Frank J. Maurath, business manager; W. B. Houkins, secretary and Wm. L. Prout, Frank P. Kennedy, A. H. Heisey, Wm. C. Miller, A. A. Stasel, W. W. Wehrle, John H. Swisher, George H. Fromholtz, Eugene Koos, T. V. Rutledge.

The reorganization will mean that everything possible will be done to put a winning team in Newark. The directors realize that a good club is a big advertisement for Newark, for the standing of the clubs, the games played are printed in the city papers the same as the bigger leaguers are.

When Springfield let their team go every paper in the city referred to that city as a "dead town" and one that would not support baseball. The prominence given that town as a dead for a long time, for people do not for one and a slow burg will remain the same easily.

The fans of Newark should pull with the directors and everything possible will be done to put a winner in here.

CLUBS

In Ohio State League Contribute $750 To Aid Ransick at Portsmouth.

There was a meeting of the club magnates of the Ohio State league in Columbus, Tuesday night. Manager Ransick of the Portsmouth club, who lost a great deal of money while the club made Springfield its home, was there to ask aid of the league. It was agreed that the president would advance him $150 for each of the other five clubs in the league, making $750 in all. This will be taken out of the $500 guarantee that each club has on deposit with the league. If Ransick pulls out of the hole, this amount is to be returned.

In the meantime Ransick is not at liberty by virtue of this advance to peddle the franchise or his players around the state.

The Shoemakers have been drawing well in Portsmouth and it is hoped that during the balance of the season Ransick will be able to get back some of the money he dropped in Springfield.

UNIQUE WEDDING GIFT.

A Pretty Custom That Is Peculiar to Brazil.

Coffee as a wedding gift is peculiar to Brazil. The custom in coffee raising countries is unknown in other parts of the world. When a child is born in the coffee country a sack of the best grain is set aside as part of the inheritance, to be received on attaining its majority. Usually the sack is the gift from some close friend or relative, and it is guarded as sacredly as if it were a gift of gold or bonds. No stress would induce a Brazilian parent to use coffee which was made the birth gift of a child. As a rule, it is sealed with the private seal of the owner and bears a card giving all particulars about the variety of grain, its age on being soaked, the birth of the child to whom it is given and other details which are very interesting when the gift is due. Generally the coffee is opened for the first time when the child marries. The coffee for the reception or marriage feast is made from the legacy, and according to precedent this must be the first time the sack is opened. After the coffee is made for the wedding feast the sack is carefully closed and sent to the new home of the young couple and should keep them in this staple for a year at least. When both bride and bridegroom have the birth gift of coffee they have started life under very hopeful conditions, so far as one necessary is concerned. Few people know that the older the unopened sack of coffee is the better the flavor. Like wine, it grows with age, and that which is over twenty years old, when properly conditioned, will bring from $1.50 to $2 a pound from connoisseurs. The giving of pounds of green coffee is a common practice in the coffee belt. Friends exchange in the coffee belt. Friends exchange in the coffee belt. Friends exchange in the coffee belt. When these gifts and compare results. When one cannot afford to give a sack of coffee it frequently is the case that ten pounds of the best grain are packed in a fancy case and bestowed on a newly born child, with directions that it must not be opened until the wedding day.

MISS TRUTH TELLER.

She Should Not Necessarily Tell the Whole Truth.

With so many people seemingly unable to tell the truth, the very title of a new book, "The Girl Who Couldn't Tell a Lie," is refreshing. One wishes to make her acquaintance. She would be a gladness oasis in many an arid waste of lies.
Have you paused to think how many people fail to connect with the truth? Not that one advises wholesale truth telling. Indeed, it is only common decency to be silent, say, on the subject of hanging when one member of a party has had a relative hanged. A little tact will usually prevent one from saying the rude thing. A very good rule is never to ask a question which in the answering may prove unpleasant and never to make thoughtless remarks which may make somebody unhappy, uncomfortable or downright angry.
In the end the heroine in the story returns to her people, penniless and broken spirited, crushed by the discovery that in this hard and cynical world the uncompromising truth teller must pay the price of her heroic virtue.

Poor Pauline! One feels to whisper to her that it really is unnecessary, even unwise, to tell unpleasant truths. Only a goose girl would tell a fond and rich bachelor uncle her unvarnished opinion of him.

NEEDLEWORK HINTS.

How to finish the collar of a lingerie blouse is a troublesome question for some women. Fine ruching runs into money if one keeps it always fresh and dainty. The lace edge commonly seen is apt to droop over and look untidy. Here is one way a fashionable dressmaker solves the difficulty. She makes a close box plaiting of very narrow lace. It is as snug and keeps its place as well as a soft crepe lace ruche. There is none of the falling over of the ordinary lace edge. It is a dainty finish in harmony with the blouse, especially if it is lace trimmed, and it is not expensive. If you buy your blouses ready made, just get a bit of very narrow Valenciennes, plait it in and see what a dainty, pretty finish it is.

A pretty cord holder is made with a large piece of heavy cardboard, with the three points joined at the top to form a triangle shaped receptacle that will hold a ball of cord. Make a hole in the bottom of the box and draw the end of the cord through. Fasten the sides together with little bows of baby ribbon and tie at the top with baby ribbon.

Next to leather itself, nothing is more useful for covering shirt waist and other utility boxes than burlap. Then, too, if the color selected harmonizes with the color scheme of the room it combines beauty with usefulness. The edges of the box should be finished off with linen braid of the color of the burlap and held in place by button tacks. Both the braid and the tacks may be bought of any upholsterer or in any drapery department of any general furnishing store. Burlap can be used with splendid effect for portieres where an inexpensive yet attractive material is desired. A running stenciled design around the bottom and the sides would give the needed decoration.

To Rid Walks of Weeds.

To rid the walks of weeds beat two pounds of arsenic and four pounds of soda in six gallons of water. To every gallon of the boiling mixture add three gallons of cold water and sprinkle it over the walks while it is warm and when the walks are dry.

How to Care For Polished Tables.
Sometimes there are ways of doing things that are so simple that we forget to employ them. Here is an instance: The polished mahogany dining table is a source of some anxiety and care in many households. An easy matter it is to keep it bright and unspotted if after each meal you wash it with cold water, using a sponge. Then dry and rub briskly. This keeps the table top clear and bright and free from that greasy look so often seen upon tables in even well regulated households. White spots sometimes appear upon the polished surface of furniture. Just remember that you can readily remove such a spot by rubbing with a cloth moistened with alcohol. This will not mar the finish of the wood.

Favors Baby Beef.

The more I feed cattle the more I am confirmed in my belief the day is not far off when comparatively few cattle that are more than eighteen months old will be marketed for slaughter, writes a Missouri feeder to Orange Judd Farmer. Once I had the idea that the larger the cattle the greater the profits. In those days we never thought of marketing a steer as fat until he was around four years old. Conditions have changed materially. This is the age of baby beef. There is less waste to young steers, and the quality of their beef is far better than that from aged stock. I grind all my feed and rush the cattle along until they are about fifteen months old, when I let them go.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONVENTION

Great Preparations Made by Denver to Entertain Democracy's Hosts Delegated to Choose Candidates For the Presidential Election—Vast Auditorium Rushed to Completion—Beautiful "Welcome" Arch Erected.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

Up to the air in Denver, just a mile, High time for Democracy? Well, we should smile! Our spirits will be high enough to touch the stars, but truly that's not saying much.

Why, with the names of Johnson, Gray and Bryan, we'll jar the seven planets and Orion! —From "Democratic Duties," 1908.

NOT long now until the national Democracy will be just a mile up in the air. That is the attitude of the city of Denver, state of Colorado, where the Democratic national convention is to begin July 7 its work of selecting nominees for the presidency and the vice presidency of the United States. But right after the convention the Democracy will come down to the common level again and, with its coat off and its sleeves rolled up, begin hammering away at one of the liveliest political campaigns ever. Prior to the respective conventions each party is "up in the air" as to the exact issues of the campaign. The conventions bring them down to terra firma by adopting affairs called platforms, upon which they can stand to make the fight.

That the Democrats will have a high time at Denver is as sure as taxes, Chicago, the seat of the Republican convention, is ten times more populous than Denver. But what of that? Chicago has entertained so many national conventions that the novelty is worn to a frayed fizzle. Besides, Chicago is too big to care much about such things. Denver, with her 210,000 people, is just big enough to take advantage of this event of national and international interest and grow bigger on account of it. Denver belongs to the ver has built this Auditorium to stay put, making it of brick and steel and stone, so that future national or international gatherings may find a local habitation.

In Colorado the women vote. Herefore at national conventions the ladies have been admitted merely through courtesy or as a concession to gallantry. At Denver for the first time the ladies will sit in the galleries as political equals of the male persons present and not merely on sufferance. Under the spreading circles of their "Merry Widow" hats they will overshadow the men. Some few of the women, in fact, will sit on the convention floor—that is, in the opera chairs on the floor—as delegates from suffragette states. The world do move!

According to the energetic gentlemen who draw salaries for promoting publicity for Denver, the Rocky mountain metropolis has two ends in view in entertaining this convention. One is to make Denver known as THE convention city of the United States. The other is to present the Colorado climate, scenery and resources to the attention of the many prominent men who will attend the gathering in a manner that will cause the good impression to remain permanently, like a tattoo on a sailor's forearm. That is why the local committees have arranged various sightseeing trips from Denver into the mountains and the valleys. These mountains and valleys are yellow with gold and green with growing crops.

Unsurpassed in Scenic Splendor. As to scenic splendor, the mountain regions within easy striking distance balls. The management has determined not to have a bar in the big building despite the fact that voracious liquor dealers offered large money for a bar concession.

Arch of Great Beauty.

Probably the first object to greet the incoming conventionite will be the beautiful "Welcome" arch which Denver has erected. At night this arch will blaze with many electric lights. It is Denver's open sesame to hospitality. Under it will pass the delegates from every section of the land, including the automobile train in which some of the Illinois delegates and their friends will go overland to the convention city. Four big touring cars and an auto commercial wagon for baggage will depart from Chicago June 27 for Denver, stopping en route to visit William J. Bryan at his farm home near Lincoln, Neb. The auto train expects to reach Denver on the fourth of July in time for the fireworks.

Mr. Bryan, of course, is a leading candidate for the nomination for president. There are others, Governor Johnson of Minnesota, whose boom was started too late, according to Editor Watterson of Kentucky, who saw him first as a presidential possibility, has gained a very considerable following. Judge George Gray of Delaware has friends who will urge his nomination. Former Governor David R. Francis of Missouri is said to be a candidate.

For the vice presidential nomination the Democrats do not seem to have so much visible material as the Republicans could produce prior to their convention. But the woods are full of Democrats available for the honor. One of the latest possibilities mentioned is Governor George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, just nominated for the United States senate under the novel primary law of his state, which will require a Republican legislature to elect him. Lieutenant Governor Lewis S. Chanler of New York is among the mentioned. Former Governor William L. Douglas of Massachusetts is a possibility. John Mitchell of Illinois, former president of the United Mine Workers of America and the best known of present day labor leaders, has been strongly recommended by influential Democrats.

In the event of Mr. Bryan's nomination for the presidency there are the "left overs," and some Democrats have suggested a Bryan and Johnson ticket. The Democratic convention requires a two-thirds vote to nominate. This year 672 delegates make up the necessary two-thirds.

Should Mr. Bryan be nominated this will be the fourth Democratic convention which he has dominated. He went to the Chicago convention of 1896 as a Nebraska delegate. It is not probable that a single delegate expected Bryan's nomination prior to that convention, not even the delegate from Lincoln. But when that delegate made his "cross of gold" metaphor speech it was all off with the leading candidates.

Prior to the convention at Kansas City in 1900 the situation was reversed. There was nobody in sight but Bryan. His nomination was assured long before the delegates met. At St. Louis in 1904 the convention named Alton B. Parker of New York for the presidency, but it was by and with the consent of William J. Bryan. Mr. Bryan did not want the nomination that year. Having borne the party banner twice, each time going down to defeat and being held personally responsible for failure by a considerable section of the party, he was willing to appease the demands of that section by permitting it to name the candidate. But he was not willing to let the convention put forth a platform upon which he and his friends could not stand consistently. In the committee rooms of that convention he made one of the most remarkable fights of his whole career, a fight for a platform that would not estrange the majority of Democrats, and he won.

In Denver, of course, Mr. Bryan will not be represented in person. He will remain at his home, as he did during the Kansas City convention. It is only when a man doesn't expect a nomination or when he doesn't want it, as in the case of Bryan at Chicago and St. Louis respectively, that the etiquette of American politics permits him to take a hand in the proceedings.

The man selected to deliver the speech placing Mr. Bryan's name before the Denver convention is Ignatius J. Dunn, city attorney of Omaha. Mr. Dunn is hailed as a polished and forceful orator. He is one of Nebraska's delegates at large.

An Anticlimax.

In this connection an amusing incident of the Kansas City convention is recalled. Webster Davis, formerly mayor of Kansas City, who had been an assistant secretary of the interior under a Republican administration, renounced Republicanism and embraced Democracy during that convention. In his renouncing and embracing speech he led up most eloquently to an apotheosis of the man who was the accepted candidate for the presidency. All ears in the vast hall were on the alert to hear the magic name pronounced as Mr. Davis climbed to his acme on great slabs of eloquence. The approving throng had its hands ready to clap, its feet ready to stamp, its hats ready to toss ceilingward, its lungs ready to shout. The whole scene was dramatic. The moment was intense. Davis ended this way:

"That matchless orator, that peerless Democrat, that incomparable tribune of the people, William J. Brennings!" You might call that an anticlimax. At any rate, Davis made a great hit with the humorously inclined, and even the ancient political campaigner afflicted with solemnity had to laugh. Such little tongue trippings as that enhance the gaiety of conventions.

DENVER'S "WELCOME" ARCH.

"western middle west," which is a region pardonably proud of itself and enthusiastic for showing its guests such a good time that they will want to come again, bring their folks and their things and stay.

"Denver's greatest ambition is to become known as the most beautiful city in America," writes a contemporary Denver boomer. The city is considerably west of Missouri, but it proposes to utilize the Democratic convention as a means of showing folks. To this end the local promoters of the convention have arranged programmes of sightseeing and hospitality which are calculated to knock Chicago's efforts in this line into a cocked hat and then squash the hat. Denver expects to entertain a hundred thousand visitors during the convention.

To Meet in Vast Auditorium.

Special trains are preparing to run to Denver from all points of the compass, laden with delegates, alternates, plain Democrats and enthusiasts. The Tammany tiger from New York city will arrive in a special cage made up of several Pullman coaches linked together like a string of bologna. Denver will be "farthest west" for Tammany, a fact fully appreciated by Denverites, who will not permit Tammany to forget this visit. From all the states and territories 1,008 delegates, with the same number of alternates, will make up the convention. That is only the convention proper. Thousands of unofficial Democrats will crowd the vast new convention hall, the Denver Auditorium, which has been rushed to completion specially to accommodate the Democratic hosts. The Auditorium seats 12,500 persons, each in an opera chair. There is floor space for many temporary chairs to be put in. Denver of Denver are unsurpassed in the world. Many Americans go to Europe to gaze on mountain scenery from below, apparently unaware that they may take a short railroad trip from Denver to an altitude of more than 14,000 feet, nearly three miles above sea level, ascending in three hours from the pleasant summer warmth of a metropolitan city to the region of perpetual snow, from which point of vantage they may behold no less than 182 individual peaks of the Rocky mountain ranges.

In Salt Lake City, which is over the mountains from Denver, was inaugurated two years ago a movement having for its slogan "See America first." Denver this summer will forward this movement, the big convention furnishing an unprecedented opportunity to make citizens from every state, from every congressional district and from every territory and island possession see some of America from the country's roof. "Top of the world to ye," says Denver in July.

A Bower of Blossoms.

But in order to feel the presence of snow in midsummer weather the conventionite really won't have to ride up into the mountains. Those enterprising boomers in charge of things intend to carry several carloads of the mountain snow right into town properly refrigerated so that it will not melt before the visitors shall have seen the curious contrast of winter snow and summer flowers side by side. July is a flowery month in Denver. The convention hall is to be made into a bower of blossoms just to show off the beauty and fragrance of the good old summer time in the Denver climate.

Thus there will be snowballs in the Auditorium, but there will be no high-

WASHING OF EYES.

How to Bathe Them Properly With Lotions.

If more persons knew that the eyeballs need bathing quite as much as the body, no dressing stand would be without an eye cup and lotion for this purpose. In washing the eyes use a special glass that may be bought at any druggist's. This cup is shaped something like a wineglass, except that it is elongated instead of round and has a rim that slopes down in the middle to fit the eyes.

To use this little vessel fill it three-quarters full of whatever lotion or liquid is prescribed, then place it closely about the eye and throw back the head. In this position open and shut the eye, so that the ball is thoroughly bathed.

As to the lotion for the bath, an excellent and simple wash that will cleanse the ball and relieve a feverish or tired sensation is made by boiling or filtering half a pint of water and pouring into it while still warm one-half teaspoonful of refined borax and ten drops of spirits of camphor, says the Washington Star. Let this cool, then filter again through a piece of thin muslin.

The cup may be partly filled with this liquid morning and night and any time during the day when the eyes feel tired. It should be applied as previously directed and after using for a time will usually clear away the yellow scum so frequently seen on eyeballs and always so disfiguring. Before applying any lotion the eyes must always be carefully bathed in warm water.

For eyes that are weak a tonic wash recommended by English oculists is made in this way: One-half of an ounce of rock salt and one ounce of dry sulphate of zinc simmered in a perfectly clean, covered porcelain vessel with three pints of water until the ingredients are all dissolved. Strain through thick, clean muslin, and one ounce of rosewater and cork tightly. Use when the eyes feel weak. If the lotion smarted, add a little water. The eye cup should be kept perfectly clean.

If after simple home treatment the eyeballs continue to show a yellowish appearance no time should be lost in consulting a physician, for something wrong with the system is indicated. Any inflammation of the eyes is likely to exhibit itself by secretion on the lids in the morning, and this condition should be checked before it leads into another more serious state.

After bathing with either of the lotions given the edges of the lids should be covered at night with a paste made of two and one-half centigrams each of oxide of zinc and subacetate of lead, twenty-five centigrams of oil of sweet almonds, three grams of white vaseline and three drops of tincture of benzoin.

It is well to have this compounded by a chemist, for should there be the least lump or grain it is apt to find its way into the eye and cause irritation. In making any lotion at home too much care cannot be given to filtering, and should the liquid become cloudy after a time it must be strained again to prevent causing irritation.

How to Freshen the Air in a Room.

Lavender salts are useful for freshening the air of the living room where smoking is occasionally indulged in. Select a large mouthed bottle—a stick candy jar which will hold a quart is just the thing—and in this place one pint of pure (not household) ammonia, add two ounces of oil of lavender and then fill the bottle with carbonated ammonia blocks. When using, shake the bottle, remove the stopper and leave for half an hour. The odor is peculiarly invigorating and not at all overpowering if not too close a sniff of the jar be taken.

RINGING THE HOG.

It Can Be Easily Done by the Use of a Strong Crate.

When ringing hogs I have found nothing better than a good strong crate, writes E. P. Snyder in National Stockman and Farmer. It is something every farmer who raises hogs needs and has had occasion to use several times every year. I have just ringed two old sows that will weigh 350 pounds each in fair stock condition. Of course they were strong, but after I got them in the crate—in easy matter, for I coaxed them in with a hooked corn—I easily held them with one hand and worked the ringer with the other, and I'm no Sandow either.

I use 1 by 6 inch boards for the crate and use oak for the two top boards, as they hold nails better than soft wood. I nail strips across the top for the cover, leaving the spaces six inches apart so I can easily manipulate a rope till I catch a noose around the upper jaw.

I use a three-eighths inch cotton rope with a small iron ring braided in one end, as the noose runs much more freely through this ring than through a rope. It is an easy matter to work this noose around the upper jaw and then draw the snout up through the crate, where it can be easily held by giving it one turn around one of the slats forming the cover of the crate. All the rest is easy, and the rings can be inserted at leisure.

I often fatten spring pigs and sell in September or October without ringing at all, and I prefer that way when practicable, for occasionally the rings make bad sores, and consequently the pigs will not do well. In that case I have sometimes cut them out. Usually two rings inserted at the upper edge of the nostrils, with none in the center, will effectively prevent rooting and still work no harm to the pig. At some time during the life of an old sow she needs judicious ringing to insure a quiet disposition and good behavior.

THE NAUGHTY GNOME MEET LITTLE RED RIDINGHOOD

(COPYRIGHT 1906 BY THE NEW YORK HERALD CO.)

1.—The naughty gnomes were bird-nesting one day, in the wizard's wood, when they spied Little Red Ridinghood coming down the path on her way to her grandma's cottage with a basket of goodies: "Look!"—said Gogo, "she's got a basket, let us investigate!" so—

2.—They slid down the hill and greeted Little Red Ridinghood very politely: "And what have you got in your basket?" asked Gogo, who was the most inquisitive gnome in all Gnomeland, now—

3.—Little Red Ridinghood was rather astonished to see such queer little men, but she had been taught by her mother to be polite to everybody; so, she replied, quite prettily: "Only a pat of butter and a few nice cakes for grandma, if you please!"

4.—"Tut, tut!" said Gogo (pretending to be very gallant); "that basket is much too heavy for a little girl like you; Lop-ear and I will carry it for you," so they grabbed the basket, and—

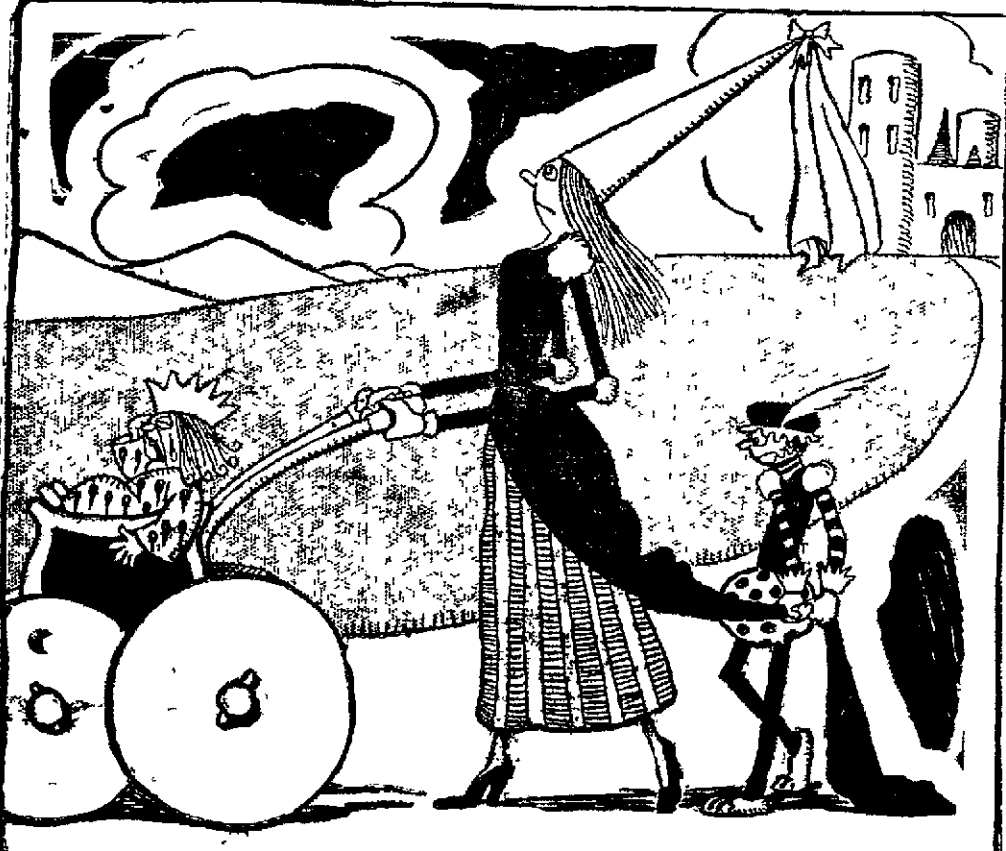

5.—Away they ran, intending to feast on the good things it contained; but Mrs. Raven had flown off and told Lean Wolf all about it and he came a-running. "I'll attend to that lunch," said he. "I am going to dine at grandma's myself." He did not suspect what was going to happen to him, but anyway—

6.—Lean Wolf almost caught the naughty gnomes. Fortunately for them they dropped the basket and climbed the nearest tree, and so frightened were they that they did not come down for a whole week.

PRESIDENT TIGHT

and Mrs. Mabel L. Hackman of California, Recently Married—Prof. T. H. Well Known Here.

A few days ago the Advocate announced the marriage of Prof. W. G. Tight, president of the University of New Mexico, and a former member of the Denison university faculty at Granville. An Albuquerque N. M. newspaper prints the following notice:

A wedding of particular interest to friends of Albinism was that of President W. G. Tight, of the University of New Mexico, and Mrs. Mabel L. Hackman, formerly of Granville, Cal., which took place Wednesday noon at the home of Mrs. E. Smith of Gallup. Rev. Dr. Johnson, pastor of the Congregational church at Gallup, officiated. The wedding was very quiet and attended only by Mrs. Smith, her daughter, Miss Elida Smith, who graduated this year from the University, and a few other students of the university.

The wedding came as a complete surprise to the friends of President Tight, who with the exception of one or two very intimate friends were wholly unaware of his engagement. President Tight left Albuquerque on the limited Tuesday morning and was met at Gallup Wednesday noon by Mrs. Hackman, en route from California. President and Mrs. Tight returned to Albuquerque Wednesday evening.

President and Mrs. Tight are now at Santa Fe, where President Tight delivered the address for the graduating class last evening. He will also speak at the Normal school commencement exercises at Silver City, after which they will return to Albuquerque. They will be at home to their friends after August 1 at the president's home in University Heights.

THE TRUE TEST.

Tried in Newark. It Has Stood the Test.

The hardest test is the test of time, and Doan's Kidney Pills have stood it well in Newark. Kidney sufferers can hardly ask for stronger proof than the following:

C. L. Starr, 89 Hancock street, Newark, Ohio, says: "I have had no occasion to retract anything from the statement I made in 1904, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, as the cure they performed at that time has remained permanent. Prior to using this remedy I suffered for years from kidney complaint and backache and although I used numerous remedies, I was unable to obtain relief. I had a constant pain across my loins and if I attempted to stoop my suffering was greatly increased and if I sat in one position for any length of time, it was almost impossible for me to rise. Hearing of Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at Crayton's drug store and was agreeably surprised at the quick way in which they disposed of my backache and improved my condition in every way. My wife seeing the benefit that I had obtained from the use of this remedy, began its use and obtained satisfactory results. I am always glad to say a few words in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills."
